These measures are based upon how your child scored in comparison with other students from across the nation. For activities that may help your child grow in any of these areas, please click here.

The average RIT score of students at Seward Public Schools.

This is a record of the average RIT score of students across the nation.

The Lexile range gives you an idea which books are written at your child's level. To learn how to use this information to help your child become a better reader, click here.

In general terms, a percentile score of 50 means your student scored right at the national average. A percentile of 75 would indicate they scored in the top 25% of all students that took this test across the nation.

To learn more about a RIT score, click here.

To watch a video explaining RIT scores, please click here.